

Sexual Health and HIV/AIDS Prevention in Racialized Communities

A mini-series presented by the Accessibility Community Equity Committee (ACE),
The Faculty of Environmental Studies and the York Institute for Health Research

Nov 29th-Dec 2nd, 2010

Health Nursing & Environmental Studies (HNES) Building

Held the week of World AIDS day (December 1st), this four day mini-series will explore the challenges racialized communities face in accessing sexual health education and services. The presentations will evoke discussion about...

- the roles of colonization, slavery and systemic racism in the HIV/AIDS epidemic.
- strategies for addressing the sexual health of “invisible” racialized groups such as racialized LGBT²Q² individuals.
- the roles of community, culture and research in sexual health education and HIV/AIDS prevention strategies.
